

THE COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND HUMANITIES

Overview:

The College of Science and Humanities (COSH) offers undergraduate degrees in Biochemistry, Biology, Data Analytics, English, Environmental Science, Exercise Science, Health Sciences, Healthcare Administration and Public Health, Liberal Studies, and Psychology. Through its majors, the college educates students for immediate entry into a rewarding career field or graduate study elsewhere. In addition, through the general education curriculum overseen by the college, COSH anchors the mission and vision of the university by providing the basic knowledge and skills essential for succeeding in any Husson program.

Vision:

Science and Humanities—the core of the university—transforming student lives.

Mission:

The College of Science and Humanities empowers students through knowledge and critical thinking to become engaged, successful professionals—comfortable global citizens in a rapidly changing world.
